

LifeSource Health signs agreements for EMTs to access health information

March 28, 2017 UPDATED 3 DAYS AGO

SHARE

Health

By LYDIA COUTRÉ

LifeSource Health Inc. has signed agreements in Ohio to give Emergency Medical Technicians access to a patient's health information during an emergency run, according to a news release.

LifeSource Health — a health data access company with offices in Syracuse, N.Y. and Marietta, Ga. — will deploy its AtTheScene cloud-based mobile platform for emergency medical technicians in Ohio.

The company also signed a pilot agreement with Physicians Ambulance Service Inc., a private ambulance company in Northeast Ohio; as well as an agreement with the Ohio Health Information Partnership, which manages the state's health information exchange, CliniSync.

LifeSource's technology will give EMTs at Physicians Ambulance Service access to health data from CliniSync on all of its medical transport calls, according to the release.

"The AtTheScene app will be installed on all of our techs' laptops, and we are expecting them to use it every time they have an emergency run," said Jason Hess, a vice president at Physicians Ambulance Service, in a news release. "There are approximately 1.1 million emergency transports statewide per year. We do about 55,000 transports per year, and the information is vital to improving patient service and outcome."

MORNING ROUNDUP

Business headlines from Crain's Cleveland Business and other Ohio newspapers — delivered FREE to your inbox every morning. Sign up for the Morning Newsletter.

SUBMIT

Recommend

Share

Sort by Best

Start the discussion...

Be the first to comment.

ALSO ON CRAIN'S CLEVELAND BUSINESS

Has the Flats deflated? Not quite

3 comments • 7 days ago

Charles Brockhurst — Turnover is normal and culls the herd of the weaker operators. The strong ones will stay open. There should still be a higher residential

Analysis: Kasich's sales-tax tries are 'like Groundhog Day'

4 comments • 6 days ago

Mark J. Slutz — Actually the tax that disproportionately affects the least fortunate Ohioans is the city income tax. In most states, someone earning under $10,000 per

Zubizarreta House is big step for spinal cord treatments

2 comments • 6 days ago

Gideon Kreiner — Miguel Zubizarreta is behind many acts of kindness like this. May the Almighty continue to bless him and may MetroHealth spinal cord treatment program

Despite multiple dean searches, University of Akron president says no big transitions underway

1 comment • 2 days ago

dickbarrett — how does he know? spends work day shootin' hoops with coeds

CRAIN'S Cleveland Business

NEWS

---

VOICES

---

EVENTS

---

AWARDS

---

SPECIAL FEATURES

